RIVIERE A recent collaboration between established British rug company Riviere and fabric and wallpaper brand Zoffany has led to a new collection of six rugs, which play on pattern and texture. Riviere was given exclusive access to the Zoffany design archive from which six of its most iconic designs were transformed into rugs in the signature Riviere style. Having already formed a close working relationship, the two brands share the same ethos of understated luxury, crafted using the finest materials and employing traditional craftsmanship while embodying a contemporary British aesthetic at heart. Each of the six designs, perfected over the past year, stands on its own as a new modern classic of exceptional quality. Behind each rug lies a journey through hundreds of hours of design and weaving, as each has been painstakingly hand-knotted in Nepal using the finest Tibetan wool and botanic silk. The collection can be customized in any colour, size and shape to allow for flexibility in a variety of design schemes and interiors of different styles.
